"We are God's servants, saved by grace, through faith, commissioned to share the Word of Christ to all."

A Message from Pastor

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, Every local congregation is comprised of a diverse group of people who have been radically transformed by the power of God through the person and work of Jesus Christ. These diverse people have no reason to live and work together, let alone care for each other. And yet, they choose to live in love and unity together, to the praise and glory of God. Healthy local congregations make a powerful and attractive testimony to a watching world. This means that every member has to be devoted to building others up. Here are 5 ways we, as members, build up our local congregation and the Church of Christ.

1. Attend

Attending is the most basic way we, as members, build each other up. It's the most obvious way to show commitment to the Body of Christ. There's something encouraging about knowing a brother or sister is simply going to be present at a church service, and you are going to worship God together. The writer of Hebrews tells the believers to "stir one another up to love and good deeds" and to "encourage one another." How are they to do this? By "not forsaking the assembling of the believers" (Heb. 10:23-25). You cannot build others up if you're not meeting with them regularly and faithfully. It's therefore no wonder that those who are regularly absent from the gathering often stagnate in their faith or become members who primarily grumble and complain.

Dear church member, church services and meetings are not about you or your convenience; they are about loving God and loving your neighbor. Build others up by your faithful attendance.

2. Encourage

Consider Paul's words about Tychicus in Colossians 4: "I have sent him to you for this very purpose, that you may know how we are and that he may encourage your hearts" (Col. 4:8). Why does he send his friend? To encourage the Colossians. We should follow Paul's model.

The encouraging member commends, recommends, praises, thanks, comforts, urges, supports, and compliments other members. We often think of encouraging as merely giving praise, like a spectator in an arena. However, biblical encouragement is more than that; it's a fellow teammate urging you to get to work.

Furthermore, encouragement is not mere flattery. It's not just being nice or telling people what they want to hear. Rather, true encouragement is honest and sincere. It praises those who serve well, and it also urges those who are struggling in their walk with the Lord. Such kind of member is a great blessing to the Body of Christ. Let us strive to be so encouraging.

3. Pray

I've always been struck by Samuel's statement to David: "Far be it from me that I may sin against you by not praying for you" (1 Sam. 12:23).

We have a responsibility to pray for each other. Church members are to be devoted to prayer. We learn to depend on God so we highly value praying to Him. Typically, praying members learn to talk less to people and more to God about people. They're a Church's unsung heroes. If prayer drives the Church, then the praying member is essential to the health and growth of the Church, both locally and throughout the world.

4. Serve

Attendance is necessary, but members should do more than just attend. They should serve. They should "do the work of ministry" (Eph. 4:12). We are to use our gifts to serve God and other members, building up the Church in the process.

Great encouragement comes from knowing you're not the only one on the team. Great comfort comes from knowing you have teammates fighting with you and encouraging you as you go.

5. Patience

Patience is vitally important both for the individual believer and the congregation as a whole. After all, the Christian life isn't a sprint but a marathon. Our walk with the Lord is a process, and we won't noticeably grow over night.

This means we have to learn to endure with each other's weaknesses and shortcomings. We have to learn to forgive without holding grudges and disciple one another with all patience. A patient member graciously puts up with other people's failures. They realize that no church is perfect—and as a result, they are joyfully patient. A congregation with patient members is a congregation where members pray for one another, encourage one another, confess sin to one another, and forgive each other.

Conclusion

Dear member, pursue these qualities in your own life and encourage them in others. Pray for yourself and others. Pray that you will build up St. Paul and the Church of Christ as faithful and patient members who attend, encourage, pray, and serve.

In Christ, Pastor Tim Martinal

If you are able to help financially to continue St. Paul's long-standing heritage of supporting this important mission to our families, please prayerfully follow God's "nudging" by contacting the school office. You may donate for general tuition funding or to a specific student. Thank-you in advance for blessing our children with your prayers and support.
